Social Security

How would you protect Social Security for today's seniors and strengthen it for future generations?

AARP's Position:

Social Security should continue to guarantee that Americans who work and pay into the system receive benefits based on what they earn and contribute. Benefits should keep up with inflation and last for as long as an individual lives. We must strengthen Social Security for the future and protect benefits for people who count on them most, including surviving spouses and families, lower-wage workers, and disabled individuals who no longer can work. Social Security must be put on stable financial ground, but any adjustments should be implemented gradually so changes do not impact those in or near retirement.

Brian Nestande (Rep):

If Social Security and Medicare are to survive for future generations, changes need to be made. We can no longer afford to ignore the structural problems facing the systems. Reform must guarantee that current and future retirees receive what they have been promised and also allow younger workers more flexibility in how their money is invested. Medicare

How would you put Medicare on stronger financial ground and protect today's seniors and future retirees from rising health costs?

AARP's Position:

Medicare should be strengthened and improved so both current and future generations can count on having access to high-quality, affordable coverage. Medicare should continue to guarantee a specific set of benefits that are affordable and meet a person's health care needs. Medicare should offer choices that ensure access to high-quality health care. Medicare should improve the quality, safety, and efficiency of care by emphasizing value and cracking down on fraud, waste, and abuse.

Financial Security

How would you help Americans save so they can secure their future and live independently as they age?

AARP's Position:

More opportunities and incentives should be available for all Americans to plan and save so they can have a more secure future. Freedom from age discrimination is a fundamental right and critical to Americans' ability to have a secure retirement. Every worker should be treated fairly, regardless of age. We need to support family caregivers who make it possible for more seniors to live in their homes and communities, where they want, rather than taxpayers and struggling families paying for costlier care.

Brian Nestande (Rep):

Don't cut in-home care; manage it privately. A private agency management could contain the costs. "I want to see what other states are doing with IHSS programs," "I want to find the best way. It may be an agency-based model." In such a model, private agencies employ caregivers for disabled and frail low-income seniors. The program would still be a government program, Nestande said. Raul Ruiz (Dem):

Create good-paying jobs right here by diversifying our economy and luring new, tourism and non-tourism dependent businesses. (Source: Raul Ruiz Website, <http://ow.ly/c3HKW>)
