Social Security

How would you protect Social Security for today's seniors and strengthen it for future generations?

AARP's Position:

Social Security should continue to guarantee that Americans who work and pay into the system receive benefits based on what they earn and contribute. Benefits should keep up with inflation and last for as long as an individual lives. We must strengthen Social Security for the future and protect benefits for people who count on them most, including surviving spouses and families, lower-wage workers, and disabled individuals who no longer can work. Social Security must be put on stable financial ground, but any adjustments should be implemented gradually so changes do not impact those in or near retirement.

David W. Jolly (Rep):

It is up to elected officials to make sure seniors get their benefits. In 1960, the United States Supreme Court in the Flemming decision said Social Security is not guaranteed," he said. "My fight is to make sure that is guaranteed. Though, "everything should be on the table, including private accounts Jolly said he does not agree with that approach and that everyone who qualifies for Social Security vesting now should have their benefits guaranteed.(Source: Polifact and Tampa Bay Times, <http://ow.ly/xxkEd> and <http://ow.ly/xxkHC>

Medicare

How would you put Medicare on stronger financial ground and protect today's seniors and future retirees from rising health costs?

AARP's Position:

Medicare should be strengthened and improved so both current and future generations can count on having access to high-quality, affordable coverage. Medicare should continue to guarantee a specific set of benefits that are affordable and meet a person's health care needs. Medicare should offer choices that ensure access to high-quality health care. Medicare should improve the quality, safety, and efficiency of care by emphasizing value and cracking down on fraud, waste, and abuse.

David W. Jolly (Rep):

Jolly has said he would guarantee Medicare for those already enrolled and transition to a system comparable to life insurance for younger people. (Source 88.5 WMNF Radio Website, <http://ow.ly/xxkKr>)

Financial Security

How would you help Americans save so they can secure their future and live independently as they age?

AARP's Position:

More opportunities and incentives should be available for all Americans to plan and save so they can have a more secure future. Freedom from age discrimination is a fundamental right and critical to Americans' ability to have a secure retirement. Every worker should be treated fairly, regardless of age. We need to support family caregivers who make it possible for more seniors to live in their homes and communities, where they want, rather than taxpayers and struggling families paying for costlier care.

David W. Jolly (Rep):

AARP did extensive research but was unable to find any public statement on this issue by July 11, 2014.
