Social Security

How would you protect Social Security for today's seniors and strengthen it for future generations?

AARP's Position:

Social Security should continue to guarantee that Americans who work and pay into the system receive benefits based on what they earn and contribute. Benefits should keep up with inflation and last for as long as an individual lives. We must strengthen Social Security for the future and protect benefits for people who count on them most, including surviving spouses and families, lower-wage workers, and disabled individuals who no longer can work. Social Security must be put on stable financial ground, but any adjustments should be implemented gradually so changes do not impact those in or near retirement.

Emily A. Cain (Dem):

In Congress, Emily will protect Medicare and Social Security from damaging cuts and help modernize and strengthen these critical programs to ensure their solvency for future generations. Emily is committed to rejecting attempts to turn Medicare into a voucher program and to privatize Social Security. (Source: Cain Campaign Site, <http://ow.ly/xSdbO>)

Bruce L. Poliquin (Rep):

There should be no change to the expected benefits received by our retirees or soon-to-be seniors. However, adjustments to the programs must be made for future generations if those benefits are to be there when needed. (Source: Poliquin for Congress, <http://ow.ly/xSDU1>)

Medicare

How would you put Medicare on stronger financial ground and protect today's seniors and future retirees from rising health costs?

AARP's Position:

Medicare should be strengthened and improved so both current and future generations can count on having access to high-quality, affordable coverage. Medicare should continue to guarantee a specific set of benefits that are affordable and meet a person's health care needs. Medicare should offer choices that ensure access to high-quality health care. Medicare should improve the quality, safety, and efficiency of care by emphasizing value and cracking down on fraud, waste, and abuse.

Financial Security

How would you help Americans save so they can secure their future and live independently as they age?

AARP's Position:

More opportunities and incentives should be available for all Americans to plan and save so they can have a more secure future. Freedom from age discrimination is a fundamental right and critical to Americans' ability to have a secure retirement. Every worker should be treated fairly, regardless of age. We need to support family caregivers who make it possible for more seniors to live in their homes and communities, where they want, rather than taxpayers and struggling families paying for costlier care.

Emily A. Cain (Dem):

Emily will continue to put the middle class first in Congress. She'll be a vote to raise the minimum wage. She will support critical investments in our public schools, universities and community colleges. And she'll bring some Maine entrepreneurship to DC by pushing for investment in the innovative jobs of the future – like those in green technology. (Source: Cain Campaign, Site <http://ow.ly/xSDBO>)

Bruce L. Poliquin (Rep):

The reckless overspending and surging debt create a fiscal black cloud hanging above our economy. Business owners don't have the confidence to expand their companies and hire more workers. Consumers with part-time or no jobs don't have the money to buy more than the bare family essentials, further slowing economic and job growth. (Source: Poliquin for Congress, <http://ow.ly/xSDU1>)
