Social Security

How would you protect Social Security for today's seniors and strengthen it for future generations?

AARP's Position:

Social Security should continue to guarantee that Americans who work and pay into the system receive benefits based on what they earn and contribute. Benefits should keep up with inflation and last for as long as an individual lives. We must strengthen Social Security for the future and protect benefits for people who count on them most, including surviving spouses and families, lower-wage workers, and disabled individuals who no longer can work. Social Security must be put on stable financial ground, but any adjustments should be implemented gradually so changes do not impact those in or near retirement.

Thomas Pekarek (Rep):

We need to build up their wealth over a lifetime so there's not such a burden on Social Security. (Source: News-Herald, <http://ow.ly/ycgLv>)

Tim J. Ryan (Dem):

I believe in securing America's future for all families starting with retirement security. Social Security has allowed generations of retirees to live with independence and dignity. American families work hard and pay into the system, and they should be able to count on Social Security when they retire. When I signed the Campaign for America's Future pledge to protect social security, I promised to oppose privatizing social security, partially or totally. Medicare

How would you put Medicare on stronger financial ground and protect today's seniors and future retirees from rising health costs?

AARP's Position:

Medicare should be strengthened and improved so both current and future generations can count on having access to high-quality, affordable coverage. Medicare should continue to guarantee a specific set of benefits that are affordable and meet a person's health care needs. Medicare should offer choices that ensure access to high-quality health care. Medicare should improve the quality, safety, and efficiency of care by emphasizing value and cracking down on fraud, waste, and abuse.

Thomas Pekarek (Rep):

Tim J. Ryan (Dem):

The creation of Medicare is one of our greatest achievements and helped lift millions of seniors out of poverty. House Democrats fought long and hard to pass the original Medicare program, and it's still under attack today. We must continue to honor Medicare's guarantee that our seniors' health needs will be taken care of during their golden years. (Source: Tim Ryan House Website, <http://ow.ly/csRsS>)

Financial Security

How would you help Americans save so they can secure their future and live independently as they age?

AARP's Position:

More opportunities and incentives should be available for all Americans to plan and save so they can have a more secure future. Freedom from age discrimination is a fundamental right and critical to Americans' ability to have a secure retirement. Every worker should be treated fairly, regardless of age. We need to support family caregivers who make it possible for more seniors to live in their homes and communities, where they want, rather than taxpayers and struggling families paying for costlier care.

Tim J. Ryan (Dem):

The past two years have been defined by unprecedented job loss and economic stagnation. Millions of Americans lost their jobs, and many of those who did not are struggling to help a friend or family member who is unemployed. As a result, protecting our economy and putting citizens back to work is a priority for Congressman Ryan, who believes that fundamental change results from innovative, broad-reaching legislation that will grow the economy, reward businesses that keep jobs in the United States, reduce the deficit, and create a level playing field for American workers in the global market.
