Social Security

How would you protect Social Security for today's seniors and strengthen it for future generations?

AARP's Position:

Social Security should continue to guarantee that Americans who work and pay into the system receive benefits based on what they earn and contribute. Benefits should keep up with inflation and last for as long as an individual lives. We must strengthen Social Security for the future and protect benefits for people who count on them most, including surviving spouses and families, lower-wage workers, and disabled individuals who no longer can work. Social Security must be put on stable financial ground, but any adjustments should be implemented gradually so changes do not impact those in or near retirement.

Chaka Fattah (Dem):

Successful government-run insurance programs such as Medicare and Social Security are an integral part of the daily lives of millions of Americans, and we are fortunate to have them. (Source: Chaka Fattah House Website; <http://ow.ly/ccy72>)

Medicare

How would you put Medicare on stronger financial ground and protect today's seniors and future retirees from rising health costs?

AARP's Position:

Medicare should be strengthened and improved so both current and future generations can count on having access to high-quality, affordable coverage. Medicare should continue to guarantee a specific set of benefits that are affordable and meet a person's health care needs. Medicare should offer choices that ensure access to high-quality health care. Medicare should improve the quality, safety, and efficiency of care by emphasizing value and cracking down on fraud, waste, and abuse.

Chaka Fattah (Dem):

Medicare is a public plan that nearly everyone understands and values, proving that dependable and consistent healthcare can be achieved. (Source: Chaka Fattah House Website; <http://ow.ly/ccy72>)

Financial Security

How would you help Americans save so they can secure their future and live independently as they age?

AARP's Position:

More opportunities and incentives should be available for all Americans to plan and save so they can have a more secure future. Freedom from age discrimination is a fundamental right and critical to Americans' ability to have a secure retirement. Every worker should be treated fairly, regardless of age. We need to support family caregivers who make it possible for more seniors to live in their homes and communities, where they want, rather than taxpayers and struggling families paying for costlier care.

Chaka Fattah (Dem):

The nation's long-term competitiveness depends on its ability to invest in its critical infrastructure. Maintaining and upgrading the nation's infrastructure is a multi-faceted project that requires federal assistance. Although local and state governments have taken a highly aggressive approach to tackling their infrastructure needs, their ability to finance their infrastructure projects is limited by both the escalating costs of these commitments along with a decreasing ability to borrow from credit strained markets.
