

POL 593-596 American Field Research Seminar

Seminars for Academic Year 2000-2001

Faculty Leader: R. Douglas Arnold

Tuesday, September 26, noon, 127 Corwin, Research Seminar in American Politics, Scott Abernathy, “Exit, Voice, and Choice: Accountability, Participation, and Educational Reform in the United States” (practice job talk, no discussant).

Tuesday, October 10, noon, 127 Corwin, Research Seminar in American Politics, Oki Takeda, “The Suspension of Rules and Extreme Committees: Explaining the Defeat of Bills on the Floor” (discussant: Erik Voeten).

Tuesday, October 17, noon, 127 Corwin, Research Seminar in American Politics, Bryan Shelly, “Judicial Policymaking in New Jersey Education Reform” (discussant: Rob Rodgers).

Tuesday, October 24. No formal meeting. Eric Voeten will be doing a practice job talk at this time.

Tuesday, November 21, noon, 127 Corwin, Research Seminar in American Politics, Matt Hindman, “Individualism in the Internet Age” (prospectus defense, no discussant).

Tuesday, November 28, noon, 127 Corwin, Research Seminar in American Politics, Karthick Ramakrishnan, “Generation Gaps: Race, Immigrant Incorporation, and Voting Participation” (discussant Chris Karpowitz).

Tuesday, December 12, noon, 127 Corwin, Research Seminar in American Politics, Robert Rodgers, “Land of the Free: The Politics of Open Space Preservation” (prospectus defense, no discussant).

Tuesday, January 23, noon, 127 Corwin, Research Seminar in American Politics, Chris Karpowitz, “Consensus and Conflict in Deliberative Groups” (prospectus defense, no discussant).

Tuesday, February 6, noon, 127 Corwin, Research Seminar in American Politics, Yvette Charles, “Willie Horton and the Black Identity” (Chris Karpowitz discussant).

Tuesday, February 20, noon, 127 Corwin, Research Seminar in American Politics, Chris Karpowitz, “Minding the Marginalia: The Nixon News Summaries as a Political Science Resource” (discussant Michael Paul).

Tuesday, March 6, noon, 127 Corwin, Research Seminar in American Politics, Jonathan Ladd, “Measuring the Representation Link in the U.S. Congress” (discussant Jason Casellas).

Tuesday, March 13, noon, 127 Corwin, Research Seminar in American Politics, Jason Casellas, “Voces Unidas? Latino Public Opinion and Its Intricacies” (discussant Karthick Ramakrishnan).

Tuesday, March 27, noon, 127 Corwin, Research Seminar in American Politics, Gabriel Lenz, “Why Might Candidates Find Racial Appeals Effective?: Some Hypotheses and Research Proposals” (discussant Matt Hindman).

Tuesday, April 3, noon, 127 Corwin, Research Seminar in American Politics, Michael Paul, “Symbolic Racism and Its Critics” (discussant Yvette Charles).

Monday, April 16, 4:30, 126 Corwin, Research Seminar in American Politics, Chris Karpowitz, “Turbulent Times: An Individual-Level Analysis of the Nation's Most Important Problem, 1964-1971” (paper by Adam Berinsky and Christopher F. Karpowitz, prepared for presentation at the Midwest Political Science Association conference in Chicago).

Tuesday, April 24, noon, 127 Corwin, Research Seminar in American Politics, Scott Abernathy, “Faith in the Markets: School Choice and Bureaucratic Responsiveness” (discussant Jonathan Ladd).

Tuesday, May 22, noon, 127 Corwin, Research Seminar in American Politics, Matt Hindman, “Surfing Alone?: The Internet, Citizen Participation, and Social Capital” (discussant Gabriel Lenz).